Living in connection and full attention

Are you living your true potential?

Do you feel that there is something unique hidden within you that has not yet fully come to fruition? As if there is something living inside you that wants to come out, but which you cannot quite reach yet? You may notice that your familiar way of acting is less fulfilling and no longer always sufficient. These are signs that you might be outgrowing something. A new phase is announcing itself; something new is beckoning within you and wants to be lived. Perhaps you do not experience any of this but are simply curious about what else lives within you, and you have the desire or longing to discover it and give it space.

In this world, where distraction is continuous; Where there is a consistent pull outward for your attention; Where chaos is not temporary but a constant; Where the speed of life seems to be never slowing down but ever growing; Where change is happening every day, and the plan, once on paper, is already outdated.

In this world, it becomes more and more important to find your direction from within. Where we are able to anchor ourselves in rest; Where we are able to make conscious choices towards more aliveness and joy; Where we choose our well-being over surviving; Where we choose love over fear to direct any part of our life; Where we live from an inspiration and overflow rather than a lack; Where we are able to see that every experience in our life happens for us.

We invite you to join us in a beautiful place in nature for 3 days where, through limiting distractions, silence, well-being practices, connection with the land, with yourself and each other we explore our depths, become more coherent and in integrity with ourselves. By becoming aware of ourSelves, we increase our capacity to live, serve, and lead to the fullest where ever we choose to contribute. It just becomes clear.

- More ease and flow from rest in your day to day life

And these are just some possibilities.....

Personal experiences

“Inner Peace: in the Welna trail I found the courage to see myself, to fight for my long-cherished dream, and to consciously choose to be truly happy personally and professionally. Gracias Welmoed y Karin!”

– Hiliana

“During the Trail, I discovered and strengthened new sides of myself. When I act from a place of calm, I’m most in touch with my intuition and have greater impact (and appreciation) while doing less.”

– Susan
